LEADERS PLAN HARD BATTLE FOR CONTROLS

Washington, July 11—(AP)—Administration forces in the house braced against threatened new blows today in a back-to-the-wall stand to save President Truman's economic controls program.

In the wake of major defeats yesterday at the hands of farm-state members and a Republican-Southern Democrat coalition, Rep. Multer (D-N.Y.) said the house would produce "a bill bearing a controls title, but that's all." Multer is a floor manager for the administration's controls bill.

The anti-controls coalition appeared to be firmly in the saddle with "no compromise" as its slogan.

Meanwhile, a new plan for control of building—hitting harder at schools, hospitals and large stores—was disclosed and the federal reserve board chairman, William M. Martin, came out anew against relaxing credit restrictions.

Democratic house leaders were hoping for last-minute pressure from the public to stem the anti-controls tide. But they said privately that administration appeals to the housewife and wage earner thus far had failed to produce much reaction.

With Democratic leaders adopting a strategy of delay, prospects were that the bitter house debate would run into next week before reaching the showdown rollcall stage.

Farm representatives from both parties, plus those Republicans and Southern Democrats who are against controls of any kind yesterday whooped through amendments over ineffective administration opposition.

Truman forces suffered a major defeat when the house, by an unrecorded vote of 200 to 112, wrote into the controls bill a provision by Rep. Hope (R-Kas) to ban all livestock slaughtering quotas.

A similar ban is contained in the eight-month extension of controls authority voted last month by the senate. That measure fell after short of administration requests.

New Entries Result In Some Changes In Orders for Pleasant Twp. Parade

A crowd estimated at 800 witnessed a four-way water battle, staged as part of the Pleasant Township Fire Department celebration last evening at the South Side show grounds.

Winner of the event was the Pleasant Township team with 18 points; second was North Warren with 10; and four points each went to Youngville and Columbus. A cumulative score is kept throughout the summer on a point basis, and the county champ will be determined when the season is over.

Judges were E. J. Clark, chief of the Pleasant Department; and Carl Engle, of North Warren. Score keeper was Sam Valone, of Franklinville, N. Y.; and at the public address system was Frank Valone, of Pleasant township.

Firemen estimate that it takes about 500 gallons of water for each two-minute battle, and last night's round robin affair took about 9,000 gallons.

Due to recent entries, some changes of parade orders have been necessary for this evening's parade, scheduled to move at 7:30 p. m. sharp.

Burden of Devising Tax Plan To Replace Fine's Proposal Is Up to Senate Republicans

Harrisburg, July 11—(AP)—Sen. John M. Walker, Republican floor leader, said today: "The income tax is dead."

"The attempt to break the resistance of the rebels has been unsuccessful," Walker told reporters at an impromptu news conference at his desk after the senate adjourned for the week.

Walker, a leading opponent of Gov. John S. Fine's stymied state income tax, referred to "rebels" as the group of eleven GOP senators who refused to support the governor's tax after it passed the house.

Walker said that, with the income tax out of the picture, the general assembly has two alternatives to break the three-months long tax-budget deadlock. He listed them:

1. Pass the $1,220,000,000 budget without cutting essential commonwealth services.

2. Ask the house to consider other taxes.

The burden of devising a compromise tax program to replace the personal income tax proposal rested squarely on senate Republicans today.

The house GOP leadership showed that responsibility onto the senate Republican caucus and in effect said this:

We're pledged to the one-half of one per cent income tax. If you can get together and give us assurance that you have enough votes to pass a substitute tax plan in the senate, then we'll start to consider a compromise—but not before.

But after two separate sessions yesterday, the 30 Republican senators were unable to produce the unity asked by the house.

The GOP senatorial bloc has been split since 11 senators refused to go along with Gov. John S. Fine's $119,000,000 income tax proposal.

A special committee named to solve the tax differences has come with a substitute tax plan but the full GOP senate caucus has yet to endorse the program.

The plan centers around re-enactment of the soft drinks tax at double the old rate of a cent a bottle, increasing liquor, beer and inheritance taxes and a variety of other patchwork proposals.

In another lawmaking development, the senate passed 31-18 a bill to increase from 45,000 pounds to 60,000 pounds the weight ceilings for commonly used trucks on Pennsylvania highways.

The senate also was the scene of a new move to force a floor vote on the administration-backed fair employment practices bill killed by the senate judiciary general committee yesterday.

Sen. Joseph J. Yonko (D-Northampton) said he was preparing a resolution to discharge the committee from further consideration of the measure. It prohibits discrimination in employment or union membership because of race, creed, color or national origin.

Although seldom successful, such a resolution would have the effect of voiding the committee's action and bringing the house-passed FEPC bill to an open vote on the floor of the senate.

A 24-hour senate GOP caucus last night saw sweltering lawmakers hit a stone wall on the question of a tax agreement.

Sen. James B. Berger (R-Potter) caucus chairman, said optimistically, however, that the solons were "a little nearer" to an agreement than they were before.

His statement contrasted with that of Sen. Edward J. Kessler (R-Lancaster) after a three-hour closed session earlier in the day.

"We're as far apart as we ever were," said Kessler, one of the opponents to the income tax plan.

Berger said a variety of taxes were discussed once again, including a suggestion by Sen. Albert R. Pechan (R-Armstrong) for a levy on household and industrial electric light bills. The rates bandied about by the senators ranged from two to 10 per cent. No estimate was offered on actual yield.

GAS PRICE WAR
Cresson, July 11—(AP)—Regular gasoline was selling 5.1 cents off the regular 28 cents a gallon price today as Cresson retailers fought to meet competition in Duncansville, 10 miles away. Cresson dealers were offering gasoline for 22.9 cents a gallon and said they cut their prices after the Duncansville dealers in Blair county began retailing gas for about 23 cents a gallon.

Y., Fire Department will come to Warren tomorrow to take possession of their new fire truck just completed at the Penn Furnace and Iron Company plant on Warren's west side. U. S. Major Astounds Communists In Kaesong With Quick-Printing Camera

Munsan, Korea, July 11—(AP)—An American major astounded Communists in Kaesong today with a quick-printing camera.

Maj. Angus J. Walker of Boston, told newsmen at this advanced camp:

"The Chinese and North Koreans were fascinated when I took their pictures and a minute later handed them the developed print. I created a sensation."

Walker is chief photographic officer for the Far East Command. He used a Polaroid Land camera.

The major brought back only five pictures he made at the conference city.

"I gave all the others away to the Communists. They grabbed them like hot cakes," he said.

One of the pictures he brought back showed three Chinese delegates walking out of the guarded conference building. They were not identified.

Two of the Red officers wore light coats, dark trousers and shiny boots. The third was in an all-dark uniform.

In the background was the entrance to the conference building. It was a drab-looking stone structure with a head-high brick border about three feet wide running horizontally around the building.

Three stone steps led to the entrance, bordered by a wooden frame. Inside, barely visible, were a few pieces of wooden furniture.

U. N. Announcement Makes No Mention Of Demands Reported in Red Radio Broadcast

LAWMAKERS SUSPICIOUS OF RED TRAP

Washington, July 11—(AP)—Wary lawmakers cautioned today that new Communism aggression may be lurking behind seeming Red willingness to negotiate a cease-fire in Korea.

Senator Lodge (R-Mass.) told a reporter he fears the current maneuvering by the Reds at Kaesong might be only an effort to throw United Nations forces off guard for an attack on Europe in August.

"We must watch this thing carefully," Lodge said. "If they were planning an attack in Europe or to move Chinese Communist troops against Indochina, the cease-fire move would be just the sort of thing they would attempt."

Lodge, a foreign relations committee member, said he doesn't believe the U. N. should settle for a cease-fire at the 38th parallel, as the Reds have proposed. He joined Senator Douglas (D-Ill.) in proposing that the narrow neck of the Korean peninsula, about 100 miles north of the 38th, be made the dividing line. The 38th was the old border between North and South Korea.

Douglas said in a letter to Secretary of Defense Marshall yesterday that the Communists would advertise any settlement at the 38th as a "crushing victory" over U. N. forces.

The Illinois senator, like Lodge a veteran of World War II, contended it would be "fantasy" to believe the Communists would agree to inspection behind their lines to make certain there was no Red buildup for a new attack.

Douglas said the State Department appeared willing to settle at the 38th parallel, a result Secretary of State Acheson has said must be accompanied by substantial guarantees against new aggression.

Senator Bridges (R-N.E.), an armed services committee member, said he was informed American military leaders are "uneasy" about the progress of cease-fire talks, believing a Communist trap may be involved.

He said a settlement at the 38th parallel would leave a "festering sore" of Communism threatening South Korea with attack again at any time.

The general sentiments were expressed this way by Lt. Richard Sieverling:

"We are and we were resigned to the fact that we possibly would see service in Europe, and this announcement is not too much of a surprise to us. We are happy to know that in the future we have a certain mission to perform."

That mission, as now made known, will take the 28th back to an arena in which it was repeatedly acclaimed for valiant exploits. The division fought on Europe's historic battlefields in both World Wars and won distinction for its part in major campaigns.

Since coming to Atterbury the division has been brought up to war strength by the addition of men from various parts of the country. The exact strength is classified information.

Income Tax Boost With Harder Impact On Low-Income Families Gets Attention

Washington, July 11—(AP)—Senator Flanders (R-Vt.) said today a business organization's proposal for an income tax boost with harder impact on low-income families appears at first glance to be a good one.

But Flanders, a newcomer to the tax-writing senate finance committee, told a reporter he would want to study in detail the plan, laid before the committee yesterday by the Committee for Economic Development (CED), before making a commitment.

The committee called further hearings today. The CED is a "private" organization of businessmen which has made many studies of governmental and economic policies. Flanders, a former industrialist, was one of the organization's first officials.

J. Cameron Thomson, Minneapolis, Minn., banker who appeared for the CED, told the finance committee the house-passed $7,200,000,000 tax increase bill would hit too hard in the high income brackets.

More revenue must be obtained from the place Thomson said, where most of the money is—in the middle and low income brackets—if inflation is to be checked.

Thomson suggested putting a five per cent bite on what the individual income taxpayer has left after paying his levies under the present rates.

This contrasts with the house (Turn to Page Twelve)

Chinese armed with rifles, burp guns and other weapons were spotted all along the route past the check point. All United Nations personnel were required to surrender their weapons (presumably to American Military Police) at the Imjin river bridge and proceed into Kaesong unarmed.

"That gives you a funny feeling," Mizner said. "You sure keep an eye on them."

He said Chinese infantry patrols were moving all along the route.

Previously they had been banned on Communist insistence. Five Allied photographers went to the Red-guarded city Wednesday after the U. N. delegation had left.

They traveled along roads guarded by a motley assortment of Chinese, armed with American, British and Russian-type weapons. The Reds stood with their backs to the road. They said they were protecting the peace delegates against "guerrillas."

The U. N. communique reported "there is a general feeling among United Nations delegates to the armistice negotiation that progress is being made."

SUGAR RAY'S PARTY QUESTIONED BY LONDON POLICE IN PROBE OF RAPE SLAYING OF GIRL
London, July 11—(AP)—Two detectives called on American boxer Sugar Ray Robinson's party here today seeking clues in the slaying of a little girl. The battered, violated body of the seven-year-old child, who vanished from a camp outside Robinson's training camp at Windsor, was found last night.

Robinson's aides said police asked questions about "a white man in a gray suit," apparently being sought in the killing.

Police called on the Robinson party at their hotel in downtown London shortly after they returned from last night's fight, when Robinson lost his world middleweight title to Randolph Turpin.

Two plain clothes detectives returned again shortly before noon and stayed for ten minutes.

The child, Christine Butcher, lived in a house only about 30 yards away from Robinson's training camp at the Star and Garter Hotel in Windsor, a short distance west of London.

She left home after telling her parents she wanted to show her black-face doll, "Blackie," to Robinson and hoped she might get to ride in his fuchsia-colored Cadillac.

She was not seen again until her strangled, raped body was found yesterday in a field of grass called Stevens Meadow, a picnic spot along the Thames, not far from Robinson's training camp and within sight of Windsor Castle.

A bag of candy which she had been clutching when she left home lay nearby in the grass.

Investigations disclosed she was killed sometime Sunday shortly after her disappearance.

George Gainsford, Robinson's manager, told reporters that police had "asked a few routine questions" of Robinson and his wife to see if they could help in the search for the killer.

Better Understanding Is Said To Have Developed Second Day of Kaesong Discussions

Munsan, Korea, July 11—(AP)—Cease-fire talks are progressing in "cold military formality" with every reason to be optimistic, a United Nations briefing officer said tonight.

"The talks now are on the tracks," said the spokesman, Col. George Rublen of Los Cruces, N. M. "An armistice is much nearer tonight than it was 24 hours ago."

An official communique was less enthusiastic, but hopeful. It said "a better understanding between negotiating parties" developed Wednesday. It credited a change of attitude by the five Communist generals.

The communique said the Red negotiators showed "less stiffness and less formality."

Neither the communique nor the briefing officer mentioned three Communist demands reported by Red radios.

But Allied delegates, returning Wednesday afternoon from the second day of talks in Kaesong, made it clear they wouldn't talk about one of the three points—a demand that foreign troops get out of Korea immediately.

Rear Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, a member of the five man U. N. team, said it was a political question. Allied negotiators won't discuss political issues.

The briefing officer said negotiators "may not get down to brass tacks" in Thursday sessions.

Ruhlen said there was much less tension at Wednesday's meeting but he added he could not disclose just what has been accomplished.

Conferees are operating without a chairman. Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy leads Allied discussions as U. N. spokesman. North Korean Gen. Nam Il, chief Communist delegate, is the "dominant force on their side." Ruhlen described him as "dynamic and a man with a strong character."

Improvement in the atmosphere of negotiations was reflected in a communique announcement that 20 Allied news representatives would be authorized to go to Kaesong for Thursday's negotiations.

Previously they had been banned on Communist insistence. Five Allied photographers went to the Red-guarded city Wednesday after the U. N. delegation had left.

They traveled along roads guarded by a motley assortment of Chinese, armed with American, British and Russian-type weapons. The Reds stood with their backs to the road. They said they were protecting the peace delegates against "guerrillas."

The U. N. communique reported "there is a general feeling among United Nations delegates to the armistice negotiation that progress is being made."

Three Communists MIG-15 Jets Shot Down by Americans

Headquarters, Fifth Air Force, Korea, July 11—(AP)—U. S. Sabre jets today shot down three Communist MIG-15 jets and damaged another in a spectacular 20 minute air battle over northwestern Korea.

Thirty-four Allied planes tangled with an estimated 30 MIGs in dramatic dogfights south of Sinuiju.

The aerial battle raged from 33,000 feet down to 3,000.

It started when the Sabre jets went to the Yalu river border area to fly top cover for 21 F-80 Shooting Star jets which attacked an ammunition factory south of the river.

Capt. Milton Nelson of Tarrant, Ala., sent a MIG spinning down in flames and brought his score of the Russian-made planes destroyed to four, tops for Allied pilots now in Korea.

The ground war in Korea has quieted considerably with the beginning of armistice talks, but there has been no letup in the bitter war in the air.

The U. S. Eighth Army reported patrol contact and artillery fire from the Munsan area near the United Nations "peace camp" base for Allied cease-fire negotiators.

The Eighth Army communique said "light to moderate contact continued along the Korean front as Eighth Army forces continued (Turn to Page Twelve)

ERIE COUNTY HAS A CROSSING FATALITY
East Springfield, July 11—(AP)—Death at a railroad crossing claimed Ernest Glover, 18, last night but spared his 18-year-old companion, Norma Thompson.

The boy and girl both of East Springfield, were in Glover's car when he drove it in front of a New York Central freight train a mile north of nearby West Springfield.

The train dragged the car about 800 feet down the track. Glover, thrown out, was dead when crewmen reached him.

Miss Thompson, carried in the car the entire distance, had only a few scratches. She was taken to Brown Memorial Hospital at Conneaut, Ohio.

George Fineran, 53, of Youngstown, O., engineer, said Glover apparently did not see the train. He said the boy's car was traveling only four or five miles an hour when the train struck it.

Lester V. Evans, deputy coroner of Erie county, said he and state police are investigating the tragedy.

Passersby called a Salamanca ambulance, in which the man died from hurts consisting of a broken neck and jaw, compound fracture of the right leg and internal injuries.

And every one of them can tell you that there's a dramatic difference between the "Rocket's" true high-compression power and ordinary power! The "Rocket"

This is the Value that Plymouth builds

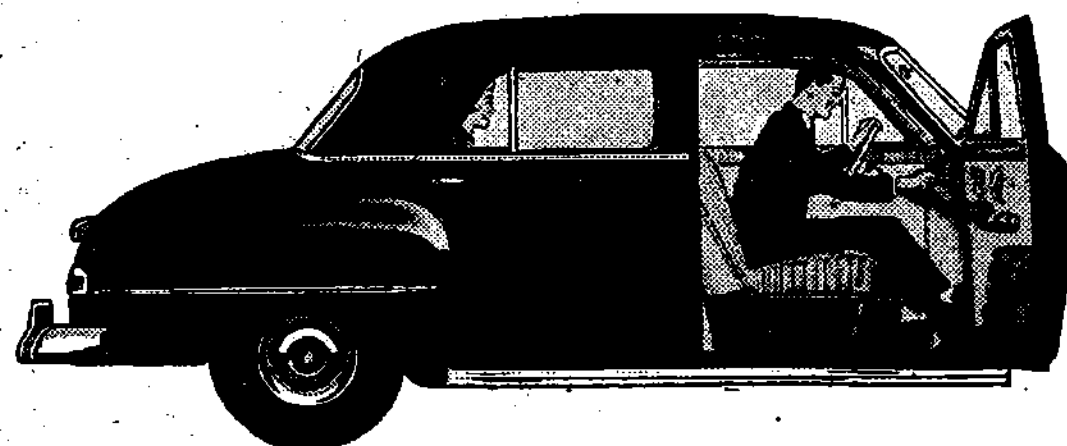

* THIS IS THE SAFETY-RIM WHEEL that protects you in case of a blowout. It keeps a deflated tire firmly on the rim so it won't twist and throw your car out of control.

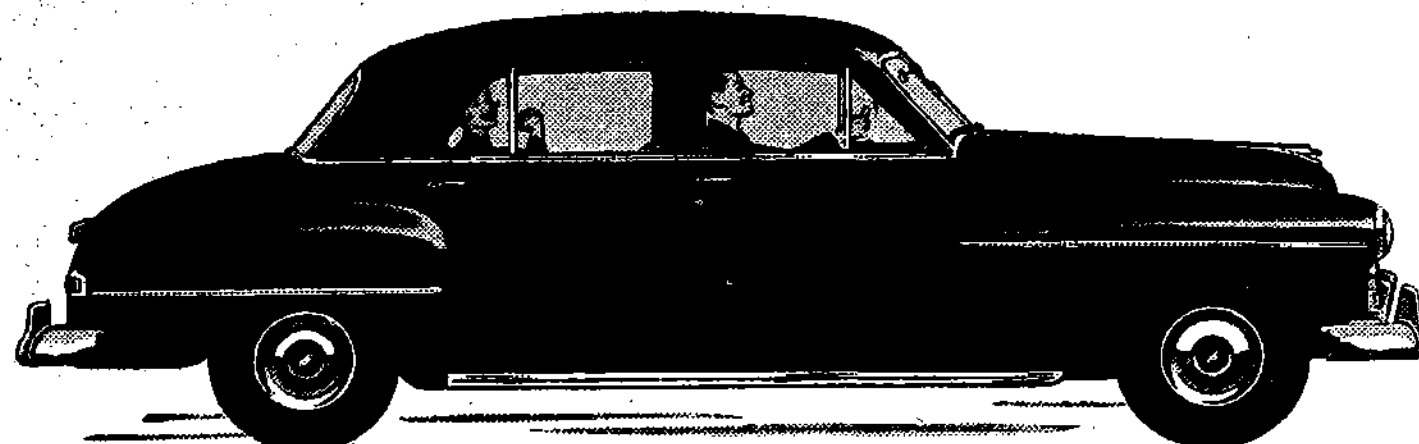

* THIS IS THE DOOR that opens wide—10 to 12 inches wider than in the other two leading low-priced cars. It means easier, more graceful exits and entrances. And door openings are higher too.

* THIS IS THE CHAIR-HEIGHT SEAT, highest in the lowest-priced field. With legs and back fully supported, you sit in an erect natural posture that means more comfort, less fatigue. There's ample headroom too.

* THESE ARE THE CONTROLS and conveniences that only Plymouth offers in the lowest-priced field: An ignition key that starts the engine and puts the automatic choke in operation... electric windshield wipers that don't slow down when you step on the gas... and Safe-Guard Hydraulic Brakes that give you better, more certain control because they have a total of six hydraulic cylinders compared to four in the other two leading low-priced cars.

* THIS IS THE ENGINE, and the only engine in the lowest-priced field, that offers the brilliant performance of 97 horsepower with 7.0 to 1 compression ratio.

* THIS IS THE CAR with "Safety-Flow Ride"—one of the greatest engineering advances in automotive history. New Oriflow shock absorbers, along with other features, give you three times the cushioning power of ordinary shock absorbers... sure-footed safety on the roughest roads... a relaxed and restful ride.

* Found only in Plymouth in the lowest-priced field

Rachel Copeland Becomes the Bride Of Joseph H. Shaw

Nuptials performed Saturday evening, June 30 in Tidoute Presbyterian church united in marriage Rachel Anne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Copeland, and Joseph H. Shaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Shaw, of Liberty, Pa. Dr. W. J. Prout read the service.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a gown of white satin, styled with lace yoke, Sixon-pointed sleeves, and court train. Her fingertip veil of French illusion fell from a coronet-top of lace embroidered with seed pearls and orange blossoms. She carried a white Bible, gift of her grandmother, Mrs. A. W. Albaugh, Tionesta, marked with white flowered streamers and orchids.

Kathryn W. Copeland was her sister's maid of honor; bridesmaids were another sister, Mrs. LeRoy Loftin, and Louise Tipton. They wore similarly styled ankle length gowns of nylon tulle in shades of orchid and Nile green, with fitted bodices and eon jackets. Their colonial bouquets were completed with green and orchid streamers.

Frank C. Shaw, of Liberty, was his brother's best man and ushers were H. Lee Copeland and Robert L. Shaw.

Traditional wedding music by Mrs. W. G. Alexander, Clarion, preceded the ceremony and the vocalist was Mrs. Marty Christy.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors. Presiding were Marjorie C. Smith, dean of women at Syracuse University, and Mrs. Siles, Endeavor.

Following a wedding trip to points of interest in central New York state, the couple will be at home to friends at 441 Liberty street, Clarion.

Perfitt and Gross Rites Announced

Mrs. May Gross, 336 East Fifth avenue, announces the marriage of her daughter, Alice Elizabeth, to Harold Edward Perfitt, son of William Perfitt, Albion, N. Y., on Saturday evening, June 16, in a candlelight service performed in the chapel of St. Paul's Methodist church, Niagara Falls, N.Y. The double ring service was read by the Rev. John A. Redmond.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, John Gross, and attended by Velma Perfitt, sister of the bridegroom. Wearing white nylon marquisette with a short train and a fingertip veil trimmed with Chantilly lace, the bride carried a cascade bouquet of white gladioli and gardenias. Miss Perfitt wore pale blue net and carried a pink-colored gladioli.

Robert Toner, Erie, a cousin of the bride, served Mr. Perfitt as best man and ushers were the bride's brothers, John and Herbert Gross.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors. After touring through the Thousand Islands region and New England States, Mr. and Mrs. Perfitt will live in Barre Center, N. Y.

Everyone Loves a Mother— Unless She Is One of These

MOTHERS whose mistakes go beyond their own homes to make life tough for the whole neighborhood: The mother who sends her children forth after breakfast and doesn't care where they are or what they're doing so long as they aren't at home bothering her.

The mother whose little darling is never at fault and who is always going around trying to fight his fights for him. The mother who turns her children over to a maid or sitter, without giving the person responsible for them authority to make them mind.

The mother who has never taught her children to admire another's possessions. So her darlings, consequently can take all the joy out of another child's new pet or toy by telling him it is no good.

The mother who has time for everything but her own children, so that they become some kind-hearted neighbor's responsibility.

FREE-SPENDING PLAYBOY

THE mother who gives her child far more spending money than his playmates have.

The mother who never wants the neighborhood gang playing in HEF house or in HER yard.

The mother who hasn't taught her children respect for other people's property.

The mother who lets her child telephone other children all day long, never considering how many busy mothers they are probably bothering with their unnecessary calls. And, instead of telling her children when to come home when they go off to play, she usually starts telephoning every mother in the neighborhood to say: "If you see Johnny won't you please send him home."

The mother who has never taught her children that when mealtime comes, they are supposed to head for home, instead of hanging around waiting for their friends to get through eating.

MENU SUGGESTIONS

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

ALL iced coffee starts with good strong hot coffee, remember. I asked Ellen Saltenstall of the Pan-American Coffee Bureau for the top know-how. Here's her tonic answer. There are two ways to prepare it:

Pre-Cooled Method

Make coffee regular strength—one standard coffee measure (or its equivalent, two level measuring tablespoons) of coffee to each three-quarters of a measuring cup of freshly drawn water.

Cool in a non-metallic container for not more than three hours, or, if the container is tightly covered, chill in refrigerator. Serve in tall glasses with ice, adding simple syrup or sugar and cream to taste.

Quick Method—and the One We Like Best

Make coffee double strength, by using half the amount of water to the usual amount of coffee. Pour hot over ice cubes in tall glasses.

The extra strong coffee allows for the dilution caused by the melting of the ice. Serve with simple syrup or sugar and cream to taste.

Coffee Float (3 servings)

One and one-half cups cold double-strength coffee, 1 cup light cream, few grains salt, ½ cup sugar syrup, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 pint coffee ice cream.

Combine coffee, cream, salt, sugar syrup and vanilla. Pour into tall glasses; add scoop of coffee ice cream to each glass.

Coffee-Colas

Fill tall glasses with ice. Pour double-strength coffee over ice, filling glasses ¾ full. Add cola, filling glasses to top. Garnish with twists of lemon peel.

Iced Coffee Valeranda

Dilute one can concentrated quick-frozen orange juice as directed on can; pour into ice cube tray; freeze; place cubes in tall glasses. Fill glasses with hot, double-strength coffee. Add one drop almond extract to each glass; stir gently to mix.

TOMORROW'S MENU

BREAKFAST: Cantaloupe with blueberries, scrambled eggs, enriched toast, butter or fortified margarine, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Tomato juice, toasted peanut butter sandwiches, radishes, canned applesauce, cookies, tea, milk.

DINNER: Creamed tuna and peas on rice, buttered carrots, enriched bread, butter or fortified margarine, watercress and cucumber salad, French dressing, lemon meringue pie, iced coffee, milk.

Y-TEEN BIKE HIKE

All Eighth Grade Y-Teens of the 1950-51 group are urged to hop their bikes and be at the YWCA activities building at 11 a. m. next Monday for a bike hike, picnic lunch and afternoon of fun. Friends of the girls are invited, also, and a large turnout is anticipated. All joining in the trip are reminded to bring lunch and a bathing suit.

DOROTHY JOHNSON PLANS OPEN CHURCH

Miss Dorothy Johnson announces she will observe open church Saturday for her marriage to Kenneth Grosch. The ceremony will be performed at three o'clock in the Clarendon Evangelical United Brethren church.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Karl H. Johnson, Tidoute, announce the engagement of their daughter, Jeanne, to Homer B. Wharry, son of Mrs. Anna Wharry, New Wilmington. No date has been set for the wedding.

MARCONI BRIDGE REPORT IN ERROR

Incorrectly named in the Tuesday issue were winners of the monthly Master Point game of the Marconi Bridge Club played Monday evening. Top scores for the nine tables were held by the following: North-South—1st, Harold Gustin and Henry Hunzinger; 2nd, Mrs. J. A. Rockwell and Harry Kopf; 3rd, Carolyn Timmis and Adele Holland. East-West—1st, Ed Koebler and M. A. Kornreich; 2nd, Mrs. J. A. Bevevino and Mrs. M. A. Kornreich; 3rd, Joseph A. Scallise and James Valone.

Out of town players were Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Allen, Winchester, Ky., guests of Mr. and Mrs. David Cropp; Mr. and Mrs. D. Freeman, Mf. and Mrs. Eugene Johnson, Kane; Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Newberry, R. W. Larson, Jamestown.

VEW AUXILIARY

Dinsmoor-Schwing VFW Auxiliary will hold its regular meeting at 8 p. m. Thursday in the post rooms. A large turnout is desired, since delegates will be elected to the national encampment to be held in New York and plans will be made for a picnic to be held soon.

FIDELIS CLASS

Fidelis Class members of Epworth Methodist church will be entertained at 8 p. m. Thursday at the home of Mrs. Katherine Kiser, Park avenue.

PERSONAL ITEMS

Mr. and Mrs. Aml Erickson and son John, 106 Roy street, have returned home after a pleasant motor trip through the scenic and historic New England states. They particularly enjoyed the delicious sea foods and swimming in the Atlantic ocean.

Chapter 31
JIGGER said bitterly, "But the climax was disappointing." Their eyes met for a long time. Prescott said, "Yes, it was disappointing."
Jigger stared incredulously at the police captain. It was his first actual look at the cold, fanatical personality that lay behind the outwardly composed man of the feathered speech. Prescott had let him go to his slaughter!
Prescott wore a forbidding look that made Jigger burn to talk. "This hatred, Prescott—hatred enough to root for my murder. To forget you're a cop in a squad car long enough for me to get killed—"
Prescott flushed. "I don't want to talk about it."
"No talk," Jigger said compulsively. "Just in a nutshell, just between us, then back to other things."
Prescott's face drained of color as the flush died. "Okay, you asked for it. It's what you are: A scoundrel, and an anarchist. You ridicule authority, make a joke of it. I'm a policeman because I believe in it. I can't tolerate your kind, and also be loyal to my whole life's training." The police captain's tone tightened. "Hate you, you say?—Sure! So much that I forgot my police oath for a few minutes last night."
"But I was on the right side—On your side."
Prescott shook his head, denying it. "You were on a third side—Your own side. Against the criminals, and against the law. You concealed evidence, hampered the police investigation wherever you could—"
Jigger looked at Prescott uneasily. Had he detected a threat? The note in the letterbox flashed through his mind.
Prescott said, "That girl Leighton hired to obstruct a criminal investigation—You let her go. In fact you helped her go. Don't try denying it—I have her statement."
"Her statement?" Jigger's mouth opened in surprise. "But I thought—"
Prescott permitted himself a humorless smile. "We nabbed her at the Airport when you got through with her, and clapped her in jail."
Jigger shrugged regretfully. Poor Trudy Ross—The theatrical Co-op bubble had evaporated in the heat of Prescott's uncompromising justice. She'd be off call for a long time—Trust Prescott for that.
Jigger said, "My hat's off to your efficiency, Prescott. I had no idea you were that far along in the case."
Prescott said, "I'll want a statement from you."
"I'm under arrest?"
Prescott looked at him queerly for a moment. "You're free to go about your business, after you make a statement. But on one condition."
"One condition?"
"Forget the case. Forget all about it. And keep your mouth shut."
"Why?"
"For the good of the Department. So people can respect their police force and the Department can respect itself."
Jigger frowned. "But you solved the case, you say—That's plenty prestige for the Department."
Prescott said slowly and bitterly, "We didn't solve it—You did."
"I did?"
"We ran into a blank wall trying to fix the victim's real identity. Failing that, we never really got moving." Prescott's eyes narrowed. "Either it was Departmental bungling, or you got to a vital clue first, and concealed it."
JIGGER thought of it in his secret mind. The note in the letterbox and the Public Notice item—The matching initials had been the thin clues that swelled into the case. With the note safely in his pocket, Prescott had been doomed to wandering in circles.
Jigger asked, "Then how did you get moving at all—Get to make those arrests?"
"Professor Scott," he called us in when you came back from Lewiston. He tipped us to everything you were up to from then on."
Scott!—He hadn't had the good Professor under wraps, earmarked "private" after all, Jigger said. "Nice fellow, the Professor. Snake in my bosom!"
"The man is decent and law-abiding. He wasn't going to stooge in the outlaw game you were playing."

Chapter 32
JIGGER grinned. "If I wasn't crebbled with the trunk," he thought for a moment. "That telephone tap that got me in the toils—Who phoned it in?"
Prescott shook his head. "We've pounded that question, but we still don't know. We think it was Arents, since police discovery of the body was vital to his blackmail scheme—But Arents kept denying it under examination. One thing, Leighton did confess to attempting to murder the drunk he'd hired to lug the trunk."
Prescott continued. "You know about the actress. That was Leighton's bright idea for getting you off his trail, getting you confused enough to call quits. You were already onto Arents, and Leighton figured it was only a matter of time before you got to him. And then when you did catch up with him, and snatched that photograph from his files, Leighton made a last attempt to win you. Rumely shut you up for keeps." Prescott smiled sourly. "You fooled me. I was certain you'd leap at the bribe last night."
Jigger said, "I'm a big disappointment to you all around. What were the knockout drops for, if Leighton was hoping to bribe me?"
"Insurance, in case you refused to play ball. Rumely waiting downstairs was Leighton's trump card."
"How did Leighton get to Rumely?"
"He contacted Rumely through Matthew Hunter, when it looked as if you had a fair chance of cracking the case." Prescott flushed. They figured the police were hopelessly in the dark, and by eliminating you—they'd all be safe. So first Rumely tried to bribe you one morning when you spotted him entering and leaving your rooming house—Prescott stopped, looking at him keenly.
Jigger said, "Don't bank on the notion. I mailed five thousand dollars back to Lewiston. Registered mail, and witnessed by my landlady."
Prescott continued. "Leighton went into a huddle with Rumely after you ran to Professor Scott with that photograph of Susan Hunter. Scott phoned him when you left, and one of our men got on Leighton's tail. Our man saw him in a three hour confab with Rumely."
Jigger repeated "Three hours?" frowningly. Then Leighton didn't go to the radio station?
"No. The station put a recorded show on last night. Leighton was busy setting the stage for your visit. That's Leighton's statement, the whole of it. And pretty complete, except for his denying having murdered Susan Hunter."

"Why would Leighton hold back there, if he did the murder? He's already in up to his neck any how."
"But not enough for the chair. Leighton's smart; smart enough to confess as much as he has, and also smart enough to try to stave off a murder rap." Prescott's hand made an abrupt circle. "At that, Leighton didn't confess too voluntarily, he lied a pack of lies at first, just as he lied to you last night. It was a stunt that got Leighton to open up at all."
"A stunt?"
"We shoved a visitor into the cell with him."
Jigger said divinely. "The amnesiac!"
PRESOTT nodded. "We almost had a dead suspect. The amnesiac backed Leighton into a corner then went at him like a mad dog. He had his teeth six inches deep in Leighton's neck before we pulled him away."
Jigger shuddered. "Leighton's face brought the amnesiac back to the night a bang on the head sent him wandering."
Prescott said grimly. "The medicine worked both ways."
"What murder motive do you assume—for Leighton?"
"As he told you last night—A girl he couldn't pull away from; a girl wacky enough to ruin his career and reputation, foul him up with his wife and the Witters fortune. For me, a man who could mutilate a dead woman, is a man who wouldn't shy away from a murder. And don't forget, Leighton did try to murder that drunken derelict."
Jigger said, "But Arents too could have done the murder. He had motive enough: Jealousy, and a frame from which he could milk Leighton for all he was worth."
"I doubt it," the police captain said. "Arents was already blackmailing Leighton while the girl was alive. So why do murder, why take that risk? All Arents had to do was simply hike the ante."
Jigger said, "How about Matthew Hunter then? Or Rumely, acting for Hunter? Why do you rule them out?"
Prescott looked shrewdly at Jigger. "Why didn't you tag Hunter with the murder when you got to him?"
"Because I'd driven Hunter to Charlton Street less than five minutes before the trunk came out. And Hunter made a display of himself, openly and publicly, coming out of Lindy's Restaurant, getting in and out of my cab. He even took time out to threaten to report me for reckless driving. I couldn't believe that was the behavior of a man on his way to dispose of a corpse after murder." Jigger looked to Prescott. "That was my reason—What is yours?"

Prescott said, "The same. I didn't know the facts, but figured if you ruled out Matthew Hunter and went after Leighton instead, you had good enough reason for me."
Jigger said ironically. "That's high praise."
"Letting my feeling about you blind me to the fact that you knew your stuff," Prescott paused. "Since Leighton's statement, however, I have a reason of my own for ruling out Matthew Hunter."
Jigger said, "I think I can guess it."
"Go ahead and guess it."
"The girl's clothing and effects. Leighton told you he carried them away. It was that practically eliminates Matthew Hunter. Why would Hunter kill the girl as Anne Brown, but leave a suitcase full of identification proving her to be Susan Hunter?"
Prescott nodded in grudging approval. "If you weren't such an anarchist, you might have made a good detective. It was that same vaude Leighton gave the actress to use in her masquerade. Well, that's about it—Anything you want to add?"
Jigger thought it over. The jig was up, complete, but with one snag missing—the murderer. A final murder confession wrung from Leighton, or failing that—evidence sufficient to convict him, would satisfy the police and close the case for them. But for himself, there were still many unanswered questions, questions born of the very special thing that had been his experience, and not the second-hand activity of Prescott and his staff.
Jigger said, "I've nothing to add now, I guess. Except to say that you haven't got the murder really solved until you have an actual confession, or a reasonable substitute for one."
Prescott promised. "We'll get it."
"But not any old way, Prescott. You never know what you've snail-gut when you go after it any old way."
Prescott's eyes darted suspiciously. "What are you getting at?"
Jigger said equivocally. "Nothing, nothing at all."
They discharged you here," Prescott started to go. At the door, he turned and said, "Your sidekick is outside haunting the corridors. He's been bribing nurses to sneak messages up to you all morning." Prescott held the door open. "How he ever smoked you out."
"Red's a nooming piece of work," Jigger smiled. "What's the objection to letting him see me?"
Prescott considered it for a moment. "Okay" he said.

REAL ESTATE MARKET FLOPS—Time was when a good Korean foxhole was worth money in re-sale value to old Army men with a flair for the fast buck. But all this "cease fire" activity has shot the front-line real estate market all to Seoul-and-gone. So M/Sgt. William H. Ellis, left, of Fort Worth, Tex., finds himself up against a hard bargain in Sgt. Dimas Gonzalez, of Jerome, Ariz., who knows it's a buyer's market. 9,000 Counts in Indictment Against a Munitions Firm

(From Page One)

Schwartz explained that a violation of the ICC rule calls for a $1,000 fine on each count. A fine of $10,000 a count would be possible, he said, if it could be proved that the violation led to bodily harm or death.

He did not say on which type the government would base its case.

Long-Distance Dial System Is Unveiled

Pittsburgh, July 11.—(P)—Long distance operators of the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania today are able to dial their phone calls from Pittsburgh directly to any point in the United States.

The company unveiled its new $8,000,000 dialing system yesterday before nearly 150 civic leaders and civil officials at an open house celebration.

To explain the complicated system that permits the operators to record special code numbers for exchanges and telephone numbers, the company set up a simplified exhibit.

Pittsburgh is now one of several large cities that can dial long distance numbers direct and thus save nearly half of the time formerly needed to complete a call.

Other cities with the system in operation include New York, Chicago, Cleveland and Philadelphia. Districts surrounding the cities can use the system by relaying calls through these primary connecting centers.

(Present at the demonstration were Harold S. Keck, manager of the Warren office of the company, and Ed C. Lowrey, editor of the Times-Mirror.)

National Leaguers Wield Heavy Bats to Win All-star Tilt, 8-3

Detroit, July 11—(AP)—The National League inner circle today saw an end to the American League's home run leader, said to be a new cycle shifting the batting power to the senior circuit.

Glenn Hodges, strapping Brooklyn first baseman and the National League's home run leader, said after yesterday's 8-3 triumph over the Americans:

"It is the National that has the home run hitters now, not the American. Yes sir, times have changed."

Ralph Kiner, the National's home run king for the last five years, echoed this sentiment.

"We're the big guys now and they are the little boys," he said. "I could see that before the game when we lined up for the National anthem. I looked over at the American League bunch and thought: 'See, what a bunch of little guys compared to a few years ago.' For the first time our boys looked like the big men."

Hodges and Kiner hit two of the National's four homers as they combined five pitchers for a dozen hits and ran up the biggest run total ever made by a National League all-star team.

Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals and Bob Elliott of the Boston Braves also smashed homers or the winners. Those of Hodges and Elliott came with a man on base. George Kell and Vic Wertz of Detroit hit solo four-baggers for the Americans.

"It's a brand new cycle," beamed Charlie Segar, National League publicist. "Watch us from now on. We're going to do the same thing as the World Series."

Previous World Series and previous all-star games bring back nothing but bitter memories to the Nationals.

Victimized for years by such dynamiters as Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Jimmy Foxx, Hank Greenberg, Joe DiMaggio and Charlie Keller, the Nationals had won only five of the 17 previous all-star tilts and had dropped 30 of 47 World Series. They haven't won a World Series since 1918. Last year they had to go 14 innings to win the all-star game 4-3.

The Nationals entered the game with the more robust batting averages and better pitching that belied the 7-5 odds favoring the Americans. The results bore them out. Not only did they outslug the Americans but they outpitched and outfielded them.

The emphasis was strictly on the home run but little Richie Ashburn, fleet-footed Philadelphia Phillies outfielder, brought the huge Briggs Stadium crowd of 52,075 to its feet with a brilliant leaping catch in the sixth inning to rob Wertz of a near-homer. Ashburn caught the ball in front of the right centerfield screen 400 feet distant after a long run.

National League pitching wasn't bad, either. Except for an unsteady two-inning stint by Robin Roberts, youthful Phillies' right-hander, and a couple of home run tosses by Sal Maglie of the New York Giants, the National's four-man hurling corps was excellent.

Don Newcombe, Brooklyn's big righthander, was superb as he mowed the American Leaguers down with two hits and no runs in his three-inning venture.

He was especially brilliant in the eighth when, after yielding a thumping three-base hit to Ted Williams, he retired the next three batters without allowing the Boston Red Sox slugger to budge off

Marciano Out of Mothballs To Slug It Out With Layne

BY HARRY GRAYDON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Just where Rocco Marciano belongs in the heavyweight picture will be determined in the Madison Square Garden battle, July 12.

Rex Layne, the young paratrooper out of Lewiston, Utah, doesn't fool.

Because this is a battle of punchers, an entirely new deal in new faces, the 10-round match, scheduled only to several theaters outside New York, figures to do near capacity. That would mean close to 18,000 and something more than $150,000 at from $4 to $20. The bout will not be broadcast.

It's refreshing to get away from Senior Championships.

Layne is likely to be an 8-7-to-6 favorite, but in the opinion of many the price should be shorter than that. Indeed, not a few believe that Brockton, Mass., Marciano's old home town, will have to turn out many pairs of shoes to get even after Layne finishes with the local pride.

Layne is the choice here and elsewhere because the Army development has been brought along commensurate with his ability. The rexy-cheeked, squarely built chap has proved himself.

COMPARATIVELY speaking, Marciano has been kept in mothballs. Matchmaker Al Walli says this was because of a lawsuit, just decided in the former shoe factory employee's favor, wherein his former manager asked $29,624.

The fact remains that 26 of Marciano's 35 fights have been against magnificent nobodies in Providence.

Roland LaStarza alone tested Marciano—real name Rocco Marchigliano—at the Garden, March 24, 1950. Marciano had LaStarza on the deck, but the rather short Bronx heavyweight got the vote of one judge.

What the smart boys don't like about Marciano is his last two outings against blokes named Art Henri and Red Applegate—in Providence, of course. The latter went the scheduled 10. In these two appointments, some close observers saw Marciano disintegrating before getting his first big chance.

Others are hesitant about throwing out a puncher, however, remembering the right-hand wallop of Marciano putting Carmine Vingo in a hospital near death after a sixth round knockout at the Garden, Dec. 30, 1949.

Layne's record is much more impressive, however, starting with his thorough clubbing of Jersey Joe Walcott, Nov. 24, 1950.

Set 'em up in the other alley.

Sugar Ray Loses His Fistic Crown

London, July 11—(AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson, once considered boxing's invincible fighting machine, was stripped of his world middleweight crown today after absorbing a terrific beating by Randolph Turpin, a comparative newcomer to fist fighting's big time.

Turpin, 23-year-old negro almost unknown outside of his British homeland, astounded the boxing world by soundly whipping the New York titleholder in 15 rounds last night as a capacity crowd of 1,000 in Earl's court arena cheered in disbelief.

The 31-year-old Robinson's fistic world collapsed around his battered features, but he'll get a chance at his home grounds to get his title back next September.

Immediately after the fight, Robinson's manager, George Gainford, said a return bout would be held September 26 in New York.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

WATCH YOUR TRUMPS BEFORE RUFFING

Written for NEA Service

It's always a great pleasure when your partner opens the king of a suit in which you hold a doubleton. You hopefully play the higher card of your doubleton, and follow with the lower card when your partner takes his ace. This leaves you in position to trump the third round. Lovely, isn't it?

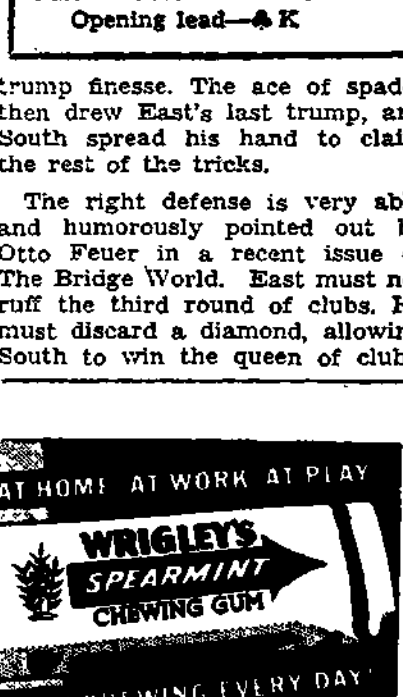

That's what East thought when West opened the king of clubs in today's hand. East was very happy to ruff the third round of clubs. He wasn't so happy about it later.

After taking the third trick, East returned the queen of hearts. South won, entered dummy with a diamond, and dined the queen of spades. When that worked, South got to dummy once more with a diamond and took a second trump finesse. The ace of spades then drew East's last trump, and South spread his hand to claim the rest of the tricks.

The right defense is very ably and humorously pointed out by Otto Feuer in a recent issue of The Bridge World. East must not ruff the third round of clubs. He must discard a diamond, allowing South to win the queen of clubs.
